A

Tim was a little boy of nine years old. He was busy last Saturday morning, because he went to the park with his friends to paint.

He returned home very late. It was nearly half past twelve, but nobody was in. He found that there was a note on the table. It read:

Tim,
We've gone to your grandparents'. Please cook lunch for yourself.
If you are free this afternoon, you may come to join us.
Love,
Father & Mother

Tim didn't want to follow his parents everywhere. He felt so good that he could be a real big boy and look after himself.

Thinking there was nothing important out there, he cooked some noodles for himself and also helped himself to some apple juice.

Then he started to do some housework. He was really a good helper to his mother. When his mother was away, he would always find some housework to do, like sweeping the floor and washing the dishes. He felt it quite right for him to do some housework at weekends.

In the late afternoon, his parents came back. He asked them what happened.

“Why? You forget? It's Grandmother's birthday today.”

“Uh, gee! I simply forgot! I must telephone Grandmother.”

He picked up the phone.

“I'm terribly sorry, Grandma, that I forgot about your birthday. Anyway, anyone will forget one thing or another. So I won't get worried if you forget my birthday next Tuesday.”

36. Who was in when Tim returned home from the park?

As the years go by, the Italian community has found its place in Australia. One of the main reasons is the birth of a second generation (代). The children of migrants (移民) have grown up as Australians.

Lucy's family is an example.

Lucy's parents came from Italy in the 1950s. Lucy was born in Sydney soon after her parents arrived in Australia. Lucy's parents were both workers. They spoke Italian at home. When Lucy went to school she had to learn English. Her mum and dad could speak just a little English. At home it was always Italian. When she got a bit older, her mum and dad would ask her to help them out when they didn't understand something in English.

When she was growing up, her parents didn't allow her to do as much as her Australian friends. Her friends didn't understand why she couldn't go out and do things with them, or why she always did what her parents wanted! Lucy's parents spent a lot of time with other Italians, mainly because it was much easier for them to communicate in Italian. Because of this, she spent more time with kids from Italian background.

Things have changed since Lucy had children of her own. Lucy is not as strict as her parents were, so her own kids have more freedom (自由). They can move between the different cultures and feel easier in both cultures. They haven't had so many problems about their identities (身份). They see themselves as Australians with an Italian background and they're proud of their traditions.

51. Lucy's family live in _____.

- A. Italy B. Germany C. Australia D. China

52. Lucy's parents spoke _____ at home most of the time.

- A. English B. Italian C. Chinese D. German

53. When Lucy was a kid, she was allowed to _____.

- A. do what her parents wanted
B. do everything with her friends
C. do as much as her Australian friends
D. spend more time with kids from Australian background

54. Lucy's children _____.

- A. only speak Italian
B. can't accept Australian cultures
C. don't like their own Italian traditions
D. live in Italian and Australian cultures freely

55. What's the main idea of the passage?

- A. Lucy's parents lived a hard life in the early years.
- B. It's hard for Lucy's children to accept Australian culture.
- C. As time goes by, the Italians in Australia have found their places there.
- D. The Italians have played an important role in Australian society.
